FEATURED TRAINING PARTNERS

Operation Child Care Project

Operation Child Care Project \(OCCP\) is a national 501(c)(3) nonprofit working on child care access for military and veteran families. For many military spouses, child care is the barrier standing between them and a job offer. OCCP case managers work with families to identify which programs they qualify for, what care exists near them, and what to do when the hours they work don't line up with the hours care is available. Short-term financial assistance is available to families who qualify. Services are free and open to active duty, Reserve, retired, and veteran families nationwide.

In Colorado Springs, CO and the Fort Walton Beach/Eglin/Hurlburt, FL area, OCCP's HomeFront Help program offers free caregiver training, CPR and First Aid certification, and background checks for people who want flexible caregiving work. It is not a licensure program.

EnCorps' Teachers Program

Have you ever thought about a second career in education or simply wanted to volunteer in a classroom but didn't know how? EnCorps can help you get there.

EnCorps' Teachers Program gives military professionals a structured, low-risk way to explore teaching or give back to their local community. The program is currently open to participants in Los Angeles, Orange County, Riverside, San Diego, Sacramento, and the San Francisco Bay Area.

How It Works

Once accepted, you become an EnCorps Fellow and are paired with a dedicated Program Manager who builds an individualized plan around your background, goals, and schedule. You'll then be matched with a mentor teacher at one of EnCorps' partner schools in under-resourced communities, where you'll gain hands-on experience as a guest teacher, including a required "take-over day," where you plan and facilitate a lesson with your host teacher's support.

If you're considering a full career transition into teaching, your Program Manager will build you a personalized roadmap based on your specific background and professional experience, mapping the most direct path to get you into your own classroom as soon as possible.

Timing

Applications are accepted year-round, with Fellows starting in the classroom either in the Fall or Spring. Guest teaching runs two hours per week for 10 consecutive weeks. In as little as one year, Fellows can potentially be leading their own classroom.

Support

1:1 guidance from a dedicated Program Manager throughout the program
A mentor/host teacher who offers practical classroom guidance and feedback.
Interview preparation, job search, and credential support
A built-in community of fellow career-changers exploring the same path

A Great Fit for Military Families

Teaching credentials are transferable from state to state, making the Teachers Program a strong option for military families who relocate frequently. EnCorps also offers dedicated programming for veterans transitioning into the teaching field, helping translate military experience into a clear path toward the classroom.

Cost

There is no cost to apply or participate in the EnCorps Teachers Program. While EnCorps is not a credentialing institution, we help participants understand and navigate the teaching credential pathways available based on their background, experience, and career goals.

The program is a volunteer opportunity, so classroom service is unpaid. However, participants receive free training, mentoring, and ongoing support throughout the experience, made possible through funding from the California Department of Education.

Whether you're seriously considering a career transition into teaching or simply looking for a meaningful way to give back to your community, EnCorps provides a supportive, no-cost opportunity to explore teaching and make a lasting impact in the classroom
